

Researchers writes an article reporting their research work and send it to the journal.

The journal receives the paper.

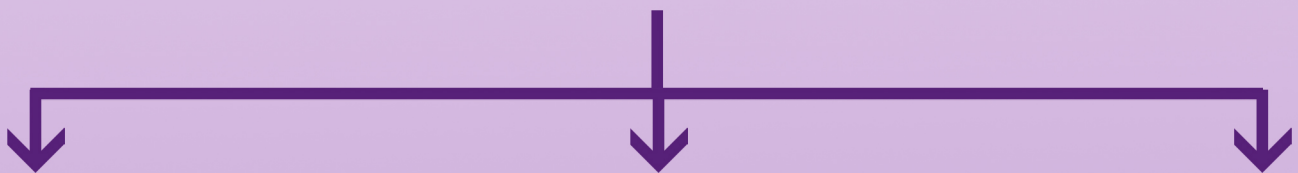

The article is sent to Editorial board members for evaluation.

Editor reviews the article based on it originality, quality and importance and give review comments to improve the article.

Based on review comments.

Accepts the articles
(no changes needed)

Sending review comments to researcher for revise article.

Reject Article

The journal receive revise article from researcher and send to editor.

Editor again evaluate revised article and send comments

Accepts the Article